Louisville, Ky., Industrial Area To Get 30-Million Factory

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, July 13.—Construction of a $30,000,000 plant in the Louisville, Ky., industrial area to produce smokeless powder was reported today to have been agreed upon by the war department and the DuPont Powder company. Under the agreement the government would build the factory and the DuPont interests operate it. Start of construction awaited only final official approval. The plant, first of four to be undertaken with emergency defense funds, is to have a daily capacity of 200,000 pounds, more than doubling the nation's entire existing output. Persons familiar with the negotiations said it would employ an operating force of 4,000 or more persons. The projected plant will be located on the Indiana side of the Ohio river.

Curious Hurt Crops
More Than Bombings

LONDON, July 13.—Sightseers are proving a worse menace to crops than German bombs in some instances, the ministry of agriculture indicated today in issuing an order making trespassers liable to a $200 fine. "In a recent instance," the ministry said, "negligible damage was done by a bomb to a wheat field, but the entire crop of 25 acres was completely ruined by being trampled by sightseers."

Judge Hammond
At Conference On Birth Certificates

COLUMBUS, July 13.—State Health Director R. H. Markwith today considered legislation suggested by a committee of probate judges as the solution to the "emergency problem" of fixing birth registration responsibility. Judges of seven counties told Dr. Markwith yesterday that they had no authority to establish birth records, and that thousands of Ohioans were not registered as a result.

Dr. Markwith said the Bureau of Vital Statistics, now swamped with about 700 birth certificate requests daily, had not had needed improvements in procedure since its establishment 32 years ago. Included in the conference were Probate Judges H. W. Hammond of Columbiana county, Gideon Palmer of Butler county, Henry C. Ashcraft of Licking county, Harry C. Gram of Clark county, Clifford Woodside of Mahoning county and William C. Wiseman of Montgomery county.

MILL TO FIGHT
NLRB'S RULING

Calls Edict "99 Percent Ineffective and 1 Per Cent Substance"

(By Associated Press)
PITTSBURGH, July 13.—The Weirton Steel company today planned to "contest to the limit" a national labor relations board order accusing it of "flagrant" violation of the Wagner Labor Act. T. E. Millspool, president of the $125,000,000 concern, said the ruling would be appealed to the courts because "the company is convinced the board by its conduct of the hearing, disqualified itself from rendering an impartial decision." He called the NLRB decision in the four-year-old case "about 99 per cent ineffective and 1 per cent substance."

After a bitterly contested 18-month hearing on charges filed by the CIO Steel Workers Organizing Committee, the board yesterday ordered the company to disestablish independent unions at two plants and reinstate with back pay 17 of 300 employees who claimed they were dismissed for union activity. Claude Conway, general chairman of the Employees' Security League of Weirton Steel, asserted at Steubenville, O., the board's order apparently was timed to win support for John L. Lewis, CIO chief, at the Democratic national convention.

Norman K. Moore, chairman of the Employees' Representation Plan, said the board frequently had been "challenged" to conduct an election but "the board continually confessed its weakness by refusing."

"We will continue to protect the rights of employees by all legal steps possible," Moore added.

Unexpected Strength Is Seen As New Problem For Germany

RUSSIA, BALKANS

Britain Asserts 72 Nazi Raiders Shot Down During Week

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Hitler's unexpected delay in inaugurating his attempt to invade England—a la William the Conqueror undoubtedly has been due in considerable measure to the strength shown by the British air force, both in dog-fight defense and in aggressive bombing raids deep into German territory.

An invasion would be a hazardous venture under the best of circumstances. With John Bull showing first-class form in the preliminary skirmishes, it has behooved the fuhrer to proceed circumspectively with his preparations, which apparently is exactly what he is doing. He is a very thorough worker.

Other Causes for Delay
True, he has had other causes for delay. There has been the implied Russian threat to Germany in Russia's moves in the Balkans. And there has been the danger of an explosion among the fiery Balkan states themselves in connection with the Hungarian and Bulgarian territorial demands on Rumania. It was a matter of wisdom to iron these matters out before letting loose the full fury of a blitzkrieg against England. Nazidom isn't keen about having trouble on two fronts at once.

Still, the British initiative and strength, both in the western theater and in the Mediterranean area, have signalled for caution. A surprising aspect of the position lies in the manner in which British air squadrons have been dealing with German raiding fleets which often have been greatly superior numerically.

This morning's British report claimed that 11 Nazi raiders had been destroyed in the previous 24 hours, and recorded that two British planes were reported missing. The air ministry said this made a total of 72 German planes shot down during the week.

English Show Power
Those losses, while serious, aren't at all disastrous for the Germans, as they have a huge air navy—much superior numerically to the British. However, the power exhibited by the English in these air fights is something to be taken into consideration in planning an invasion, since that must be preceded by a devastating air bombardment with great numbers of planes.

The Nazis undoubtedly are prepared to lose several thousand machines if it seems clear that they will achieve their object of bombing England into submission in the process. A Nazi reverse in such an attack, however, would be a hard blow for Germany, and for German prestige abroad.

In view of all this, some speculation has arisen among observers as to whether Herr Hitler might decide to abandon the idea of an invasion and concentrate on his starvation-blockade of the British Isles. The Germans claim to be sinking vast numbers of merchant ships, and there certainly is evidence that they are meeting with a measure of success in the anxiety exhibited in British official quarters over future food supplies.

Nobody knows what Hitler will do that his blockade would be more effective and less risky. Still, it strikes me that he will undertake the invasion if it seems at all feasible.

QUARANTINE ON DOGS IN EFFECT

County-Wide Action Ordered by Health Commissioner

A county-wide dog quarantine was established today by Dr. Seward Harris of Lisbon, Columbiana county health commissioner. The action, which is effective immediately, follows repeated outbreaks of rabies in scattered sections of the county. A similar quarantine is now in force in Mahoning county.

Dr. Harris disclosed that Columbiana county already this year has spent close to $6,000 in the treatment of persons who had come in contact with diseased animals. When a dog killed in Lisbon recently was found to have had rabies, a total of 35 persons were listed who had been in close contact with the animal and had to take the Pasteur treatment.

The quarantine will be in force until 90 days after the last case of rabies is reported, the commissioner said.

He called upon the dog warden, the sheriff's office, city police and township officers to see that the quarantine is observed. "The fact that a dog is licensed does not permit it to run at large," the doctor added, "and owners allowing their pets to run loose face the possibility of losing them."

Police here and at East Liverpool have been warring against stray dogs for the past several months.

Police Believe Cincinnati Hospital Fire Was of Incendiary Origin

CINCINNATI, July 13.—A belief that the Holy Family home fire here which took the lives of six residents and caused the injury of at least seven others was of incendiary origin was heightened today as police were asked to arrest a suspect.

"I could find no evidence of the fire starting from ordinary cause and I have asked police to pick up a former employee of the home who had a penchant for setting fires," Marshal Louis Schraffenberger, head of the city's fire prevention bureau, said.

Flames which trapped 30 persons on the third floor and wrecked the building on the St. Francis hospital grounds, early yesterday started in a basement storage room, Fire Chief Barney Houston reported.

Miss Theresa Burghart, 78, of Cleveland, died of injuries several hours after being taken to a hospital.

Houston estimated damage at $50,000.

The fire was the most disastrous here in number of lives lost, since the Salvation Army hotel burned in 1918.

The Holy Family home was erected 51 years ago by Sisters of the Poor.

Although Candidate, Farley Pledges Support If That Happens

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, July 13.—Tremendous pressure was brought to bear upon James A. Farley today to continue for a time as chairman of the Democratic national committee, regardless of next week's convention's choice of a presidential nominee.

As the crowds assembled for the big party meeting—virtually certain to renominate the President, Farley's old New York associates urged him to carry one step farther his declaration of yesterday that he would not "take a walk" if President Roosevelt runs again. And, they reported that he was wavering.

Third Term Opponent

A candidate himself, Farley, who directed the President's 1932 and 1936 campaigns, has long been an opponent of the third term movement. Moreover, he is one of the very few of the many politicians in Chicago who knows just what Mr. Roosevelt's plans are.

The leaders of the third term movement regarded Farley's statement yesterday as at least a partial victory in their effort to persuade him to direct the 1940 Roosevelt campaign through its early stages, at least. His pronouncement came at the one serious moment in a press conference devoted otherwise to wise-cracking and laughter. A reporter asked whether Farley would "take a walk" if Mr. Roosevelt was renominated.

His mood suddenly changed to one of intense earnestness as he answered: "Everybody who knows anything about me knows that Jim Farley is a Democrat."

Resolutions Committee At Work

As Farley's associates awaited his decision, the convention machinery turned steadily, with the resolutions committee continuing its platform surely approving New Deal policy on both foreign and domestic questions. Today's principal witnesses were Edward A. O'Neil of the American Farm Bureau federation and Miss Josephine Roche, former assistant secretary of the treasury, speaking for the National Consumers' league.

The committee had already heard Philip Murray, CIO spokesman, charge that Commonwealth and Southern utilities company headed until recently by Wendell Willkie, the Republican nominee, was violating the Wagner Labor Act at the time the Philadelphia convention selected him as its candidate.

The utilities issue was raised before the committee by Maurice P. Davidson, trustee of the New York State Power Authority, who said that Willkie's nomination was a challenge to what they have gained in the way of regulation of private utilities.

Jehovah Witnesses
Are "Imprisoned"
In Hall Six Hours

FREEMONT, July 13.—Held in their meeting hall at nearby Gibbsburg for six hours by a crowd of townspeople and World War veterans, 16 members of Jehovah's Witnesses, religious sect, returned to their homes at 3 a. m. today after sheriff's deputies escorted them to their automobiles.

The sect members, including men, women and children, were leaving their hall after a weekly service last night as the crowd of 400 persons confronted them, Sheriff H. L. Myers said.

At the head of the crowd war veterans carried a large American flag and demanded the sect members salute it.

The group returned to its hall upon the advice of John W. Henline, village mayor. Massing in front of the sect's rooms facing the public square, the crowd heard several speeches and patriotic recordings. Authorities reported no violence.

Sheriff Myers and deputies remained at the demonstration scene until the crowd dispersed, then accompanied the witnesses to their cars.

THE STAR HALFBACK

The single, great, objective political fact on the eve of the Democratic national convention is that the party has prepared no one to take the place of Franklin D. Roosevelt, who took over its ball carrying duties in March, 1933, and never has relinquished the job since.

Only slightly less prominent than Mr. Roosevelt's monopoly of party leadership is the fact he has it in his power to leave Democrats in the lurch by refusing to run for a third term. They are first to admit by their various resolutions urging him to run again that all their eggs are in one basket and Mr. Roosevelt is the basket.

It follows in natural order that if Mr. Roosevelt doesn't leave them in the lurch but does run again Democrats will be grateful. When it is considered that as recently as a year ago many of them couldn't see their way clear to swallowing the idea of a third term the beauty of the strategy used to make them change their minds is evident.

Unders'andably, Democrats are touchy about this. By a process of rationalization they can convince themselves that Mr. Roosevelt now should run for a third term. It necessarily appears to all others that Mr. Roosevelt decided he was going to run for a third term a good many years before his followers reached the same conclusion. Otherwise, the star halfback, looking forward to his coming graduation, would have made room for a substitute to step into his shoes when he was through.

It won't be easy to convince the country that the third term thing was a phenomenon of 1940, byproduct of a war emergency. The record shows that nothing ever was done to prove a third term wasn't the objective long before the emergency appeared.

THE BARRAGE STARTS THE BATTLE

The hail of destruction being rained on Great Britain by German bombers is the equivalent of an artillery barrage 25 years ago. While word is awaited that the battle of Britain has started, the plain fact is that the engagement already is well under way. Under the circumstances of modern warfare, occupation of territory by enemy troops merely is a sign the battle is over.

Strangely in view of the information at their command, the tendency among Americans is to think of the military problem in the battle of Britain as one of ferrying troops and equipment across the English channel. That would be admittedly difficult as long as British ability to resist remained largely unimpaired. It is extremely unlikely that German strategists will attempt it till ability to resist has been diminished.

Thus, it must be noted that submarine warfare is being intensified; shipping vital to Great Britain is being destroyed at a tremendous rate. Ultimately, this would mean starvation and shortage. At the same time, the British battle fleet guarding the island is under constant attack, with Italy making sure that Mediterranean units are kept too busy to be ordered home to replace lost units.

This is the battle of Britain. It is not something which is going to happen tomorrow, or next week, or next month. It is in progress now—today, tomorrow, next week, next month it will be over.

HATCHED OUT

Official word from Washington is that the Hatch bill is on skids and can't be stopped. This is the bill to clean up political corruption in state groups drawing part of their pay from the U. S. treasury. It also puts the six sign on sly little dodges like campaign books and sets a $5,000 limit on the betting in the political sweepstakes. One way or another, together with the original Hatch bill passed last year, the law would make national politics almost as pure as that well known soap.

This is something everybody can favor, though it must be noted a great many politicians, chiefly members of the party in power, are acting skittish. They make no bones about resenting anything that interferes with the business of getting elected and re-elected. They have no use for reform, unless it's at the other fellow's expense, which explains why some Republicans who are for the Hatch bill now will try to repeal it pronto when their party returns to power.

It is necessary to face these facts. Politicians have not grown purer, though politics may be cleaned up. Whatever reform is embodied in the Hatch laws has sprung not from purity of the spirit but mutual distrust. The proposals were called idealistic and fantastic. On the contrary they probably are as hard-bitten as anything which has come out of the legislative hopper in the last two years.

—AND LET'S BE POSITIVE

This is one of those stray ideas which take root. Just a sign someone saw in a drug store someplace and told about—and someone else told someone else and so on. The sign said:

WERE NOT ANTI-ANYTHING
WERE PRO-AMERICAN

Without knowing what was happening, a lot of Americans have developed into backseat drivers in politics. We can tell what's wrong with every government on earth, including the Scandinavian. We can get a red neck just thinking about the Hitler, Mussolini, Stalin et al. We blast the daylight out of the dumb bunnies who fall for such tripe—and in the next breath wonder why we put up with the government of our own country.

It needs some blasting to keep it on its toes. That's the only secret there is to letting the people have a voice in government. But it can be blasted off its toes and back on its heels. If the United States is worth being proud of it doesn't hurt to say so once in awhile. Instead of carping about the way things are going to the dogs, Americans profitably could talk up the advantages of their way of doing things. Forget the gosh-awful foreigners and size up the natives for a change.

In politics, a fellow who runs down his opponent but offers nothing constructive on his own hook deserves a licking. The struggle between authoritarianism and liberty is the biggest kind of politics there is. Americans are stumping for liberty; the opposition is stumping for destruction of liberty. Being pro-American these days is more than a gesture of patriotism; it's a declaration of conviction about a way of living. It's something to be positive about!

Treating A Sunstroke Case

Here's Doctor's Advice In Emergency

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
HEAT STROKE or sunstroke is due to an upset of the heat regulating centers of the body, and the worst symptoms, the actual "stroke," loss of consciousness and collapse, are preceded by a period when the victim becomes very sensitive to the oppressive atmospheric conditions, gets pale with clammy skin, feels weak, may be

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

nauseated. Shortly after the skin, instead of being clammy, feels hot and dry and mentality is disturbed. The English physiologist, Haldane, has shown that if the temperature of the environment is greater than the body, heat storage may occur and a gain in body temperature of one degree an hour is possible. Humidity, that old enemy, tends to increase this heat storage.

Cooling Imperative
Treatment in these early stages will ward off the serious later stages. Cold water on the skin to reduce temperature is the indication. Ice is not so effective as cold water evaporated by a fan. The evaporation of a quart of water removes seven times as much heat as the melting of two pounds of ice.

The water should be thrown on the body with some force; from a hose, if available, or sluiced on from a bucket. This impingement of the water on the skin is a stimulant and a very valuable because the real danger of heat stroke is circulatory collapse.

Of course, remove the heat exhausted victim to the coolest place that can be found, away from the sun.

The ideal treatment is to remove all the clothes, wrap the patient in a sheet and put him on a cot on a rubber sheet. A hose is played on him from a distance of several feet. Every two or three minutes a stream of cold water is poured on his head from a distance of 6 to 8 feet. Heat must not be removed too suddenly and when the body temperature falls to 102 degrees Fahrenheit he is wrapped in blankets.

Anyone who handles one of these patients is liable to report that he is "sizzling hot" to touch. Sometimes the body temperature goes high as 109 degrees Fahrenheit. One heat stroke or attack of heat exhaustion makes the heat-sensitive, and he must be careful of hot weather ever afterward.

It only needs the newsworthy headlines to tell us that the condition may be fatal. A bad heart, kidneys naturally predisposed to heat stroke, and people who know they have such disability should be doubly careful on hot days.

Questions and Answers
Mrs. E. N. B.—"Does smoking by a nursing mother in any way affect the child?"

Answer—In the opinion of most physicians, it does not.

Services In Our Churches

English Lutheran Pastor Continues Series of Sermons

Another in a series of sermons on the general theme "Heaven and Hell" will be delivered by Rev. George D. Keister, pastor, at the morning worship service of the Holy Trinity English Lutheran church tomorrow, the eighth Sunday after Trinity.

Complete services for the church are as follows:

Sunday school, 9:45 a. m.—(Job 19:23-29). Charles W. Youtz, superintendent.

The mind of man exercises persistence in seeking to believe in the life that comes after death. Amid all the doubt and opposition that may be found against the teaching about life after death, the fire of faith still burns on. Such a person as Job, who did not have the assurance of the words of Jesus and the evidence of the resurrection, was teaching out for the truth that his soul desired. This struggle was not in vain. Faith is now strengthened. God has satisfied the question of man, about the continuation of life after death.

Morning worship at 11—Sermon subject: "Is There a Hell?"

"The belief that there is a heaven, presupposes that there is a hell. The same authority which tells of a reward for the righteous, also speaks of a punishment for the wicked. This is not a pleasant teaching. It may not be very welcome. There have been attempts to erase this from the doctrines of the Christian faith. However, the faith of Christians is not an invention of the human mind. It is God-given. There is no doubt in Holy Scriptures that a place called hell exists. With all possible definition it is spoken of and mentioned. The disobedience of people has made hell a necessity. The persistence of sin in the hearts of people has demanded that a place for the wicked be provided. The justice of God could no longer be upheld if there were no distinction made between the sinner and the saved in the life beyond the grave. God cannot lie, and His word about hell was not an idle word."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And I saw another mighty angel come down from heaven, clothed with a cloud; and a rainbow was upon his head, and his face was as it were the sun, and his feet as pillars of fire: and he had in his hand a little book open" (Revelation 10:1-2).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science text book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mortals, obey the heavenly evangel. Take divine Science. Read this book from beginning to end. Study it, ponder it. It will be indeed sweet at its first taste, when it heals you; but mummur not over Truth, if you find its digestion bitter" (p. 559).

"TITAN TOWER" by JAMES C. CHESNUTT

STORY SO FAR

Drawn together as they aid accident victim atop Titan Tower, new skyscraper, Nurse Linda Morton and Dr. Bill Blaine sense mutual affection. With memories of her love for late Airman Mike Morton still warm, however, Linda feels very mixed emotions as she day-dreams of possible romance with the debonair young medic. After her harrowing roof-top experience, Linda returns home, unnerved. Her mind goes back to that tragic night when Mike was killed in a crash. After his death, no word of sympathy came for Linda from Mike's wealthy parents who disapproved of her marriage. So when Mickey was born, she did not let them know. Linda's reverie is interrupted by the arrival of her friends, naive Janice Margerrey and sophisticated Josephine Monroe. Speaking of the accident, Linda asks if they know Blaine. She learns from Jo he is in the Social Register and his father owns Titan Tower. The matchmaking Jo detects that Linda is more than professionally interested in Bill and urges her to "play single." Men like Bill Blaine are interested in GIRLS, not mothers. Linda says she will never deny Mickey but, later that night, she is torn between love for her son and a young woman's yearning for romance.

CHAPTER NINE

The next day, back at work in the office, Linda thought more and more of Jo's suggestion of the night before.

Dr. Thorpe smilingly accused her of wool-gathering and offered to bet that her thoughts were miles away—back in her home state maybe—and that's when she asked the question she didn't mean to ask.

"About Dr. Blaine, Dr. Thorpe," Linda said, "you told me you supported him—I didn't understand."

"No, Billy Blaine, Child," Dr. Thorpe laughed. "I was talking about his father, Old J.R. practically owns the building. I pay him a fancy rent each month."

"Oh!" said Linda. "Thanks." The morning was almost a total blank for Linda, but somehow she managed to get her work done.

When lunch time came, she couldn't have told you why she went to the sun deck on the roof, but would have ascribed it probably to a sudden desire for sun.

If Linda went to the roof garden in hopes of meeting someone, it is safe to assume that someone wasn't the one she met.

It was there and then that Linda met Steve Hubbard.

The sun was bright and glaring, and Linda closed her eyes against its brightness. As she stretched her supple young form in the gayly colored deck chair, she noted that, despite the sun, it wasn't uncomfortably warm. Up there on the sun-deck of Titan Tower, twenty-five stories above the street, a gentle cooling breeze blew stray wisps of hair about her forehead, achieving an effect which Linda would have corrected had she been aware of it, but which was totally charming.

It was not of necessity that Linda closed her eyes against the bright sunlight. She had another alternative, had she chosen to use it. In the purse near her were a pair of dark sunglasses.

But, four feet away, on the other side of a potted palm, was an empty deck chair, its expanse of bright awning, looking comfortable and inviting. And, if any chance visitor to the roof should choose to sit down in that chair, he would surely see Linda; particularly if the visitor were a tall and tanned young man with nice blue eyes, a white engaging smile and skilled, long hands—a man who was on the roof under less tranquil circumstances yesterday, a man who was afraid he'd wake up and find her, Linda gone.

Well, he didn't need to be afraid of that. Little Linda was right here. But where was Dr. Blaine? Linda had not been too preoccupied, arriving at the building that morning to look under the "B's" on the huge register near the entrance and she had found it there.

"BLAINE," it read, "William Meredith M. D., 1902-12"

Before coming to the roof during her lunch hour, she had taken a brief sortie down to the nineteenth floor a sort of future scouting trip. It was a risky thing to do—suppose

If Dr. Blaine came up to the roof garden, he could not fail to see Linda sitting in the gayly-colored deck chair.

HE had come out of the office door while she stood there like a dummy! How could she explain her curiosity, how could she assume a nonchalant pose under the circumstances?

There was no need for nervousness, however. The doors of the suite of six offices neither opened nor closed during her brief reconnaissance.

Linda had memorized the legend on the glass door of 1902—the one which was topped by the capital word, "ENTER."

Mentally, she reviewed the sequence of the names:

Franc Carter Vance, M. D.
General Surgery
William M. Blaine, M. D.
Leonard Renquist, M. D.

So that was the "Rennie" to whom Bill Blaine had generously given the credit yesterday for the success of the amputation on the trapped workman. Dr. Renquist was the scowling, tired-looking, young man who assisted in the precarious operation.

Sudden Linda realized that she was hungry, that she had not eaten lunch before coming to the roof. She opened her eyes, and the first thing she saw was the lower portion of the empty deck chair on the other side of the palm.

The chair was no longer empty. Stretched from the part she saw were a pair of legs. The legs were neatly pressed brown trousers.

Linda sat upright and peered through the foliage of the palm, blinking against the sun to see the rest of the chair's occupant. Right under the palm's fans was the face of a young man. It was not Dr. Blaine. Linda sat back in her chair.

"I beg your pardon," the strange man said, "but is this chair taken?"

Linda didn't answer for a long moment. She noticed that the young man had a pleasant boyish grin, wide spaced cheekbones and long-lashed frank gray eyes which

It definitely wasn't a pretty face. Linda decided, and nothing to make a girl's heart go pitty-pat, but it was a nice face. It didn't look as though it could be rented out. Hal-lowe-ens, to scare little children.

Just a little fresh around the edges, Linda concluded—an old approach, calling for a trite courteous retort.

"Yes," she answered his question, without smiling. "You seem to have taken it."

"My apologies," the chair-taker said, but the grin didn't fade. "I didn't know this was a private beach. You should post signs to keep out the riff-raff."

It may have been the sun or it may have been the constant, friendly grin Linda's quickly frozen reserve as quickly melted. She smiled back at him.

How can you tell what the funeral service is going to cost? Well, if you select the Stark Memorial, that question may be easily answered: you simply look at the card which is on each casket, and you see what the cost of the casket, plus all ordinary essentials of a funeral service, will be.

I thoroughly approve of this "complete price" policy. It is used by outstanding funeral directors throughout the country, and, I believe, considered the fairest and most straight-forward of all pricing policies.

THREE OUTFITS WILL SEE YOU THROUGH WEEK-END.

A minimum of clothes to take with you on a week-end visit is better than too many. If you choose carefully, three outfits will see you through—one for traveling, one for play and an evening dress. You can always add to this. Virginia Vale, center, models the traveling costume, which consists of a station wagon coat—very new and smart—and tailored silk dress. The coat is made of bright yellow and brown plaid on beige wool; the dress of bamboo beige with raffia belt and felt beret. Left is Priscilla Lane wearing an ideal play suit for the occasion. It is made of striped cotton, and has a detachable skirt with wide sash which ties in the back. The evening dress, worn here by Gale Storm, is in sheer pastel blue chiffon, built on shirtmaker lines, with a wide self-material belt and long, graceful skirt. Add bathing suit, sneakers, Sox and sun glasses to these three outfits, and you'll have the minimum requirements for a successful week-end.

"DINNER CLOTHES" MAY NOW BE QUITE INFORMAL

The term "dinner clothes" used to mean formal attire, but today it means almost anything, from formal dress to cotton pajamas with trousers as wide as skirts, or patio dresses. Elaine Shepard has selected the patio type dress for a dinner ensemble. The blouse is rib-length, tomato red silk jersey with full sleeves, shirred bodice and cuffs. The full trousers are of silk jersey stitched and shirred in a band just below the exposed midriff. The design of this material, a Polynesian print, displays red and black fire-eating dragons amid tropical cal red and gold flowers. Wendy Barrie, on the other hand, is wearing a formal gown of white silk jersey with gold sequin vine leaves embroidered on the bodice. Maureen O'Hara has chosen a dusky red cotton frock, narrowly striped in beige and coral. The skirt is box-pleated, the low-cut mess jacket is white lined and buttoned with the same striped material. When the little coat is doffed, the low-cut back and snugly-fitted bodice give the costume a formal air. It is cool and fresh looking and will launder well.

SANITARY CLUB CLIMBS BACK INTO WIN COLUMN

Leaders In Class A Loop Slated To Meet Tuesday In Championship Battle

National Sanitary Moves Up Even With Leetonia by Blanking Trades Class, 5-0; Martin Tires Rally To Top Roberts

Bounding back into the win column after suffering their first defeat of the season last Monday, the National Sanitary shut out the Trades Class, 5 to 0, in one of two Class A league softball games at Centennial park Friday evening.

The victory was the Sanitary's eighth in nine games, moving them up even with the Leetonia Merchants in first place in the Class A league's first half race.

The two leaders are scheduled to meet next Tuesday in a battle that will probably decide the first half championship, but before they clash in the all-important battle each has one other game to play.

Monday Games
The Sanitary will meet the Washington Merchants at 5:30 p. m. Monday, while Leetonia will face the Salem News at 6:30 p. m. If both the Sanitary and Leetonia win in Monday's games, the first half championship is certain to be decided in their clash Tuesday. But, if one of the teams loses, the first half race may be tossed into a four-way tie.

The Sanitary scored early to defeat the Trades Class, counting two runs in the first inning and three in the second to give Pitcher Dale Ritchie a safe lead to work on. Ritchie kept six hits well scattered in blanking the Trades Class.

Mike Kozar and John Dermotta hammered out two hits apiece to lead the Sanitary's 10-hit attack.

A two-run rally in the seventh inning gave the Martin Tires a 10-9 victory over the Roberts Men's Shop in the other Class A game.

Roberts outfield the Tires, 13 to 9, but poor fielding cost them a possible victory. They committed six errors.

The Tires spotted Roberts' six runs in the third inning, then came from behind to gain the victory.

Methodists Take Lead
The Methodists and Young People's Catholic Club, leaders in the Church league's second round race, clashed in one of two Church league games with the Methodists winning, 9 to 7, to take over sole possession of the lead.

It was the Methodists' fifth consecutive victory and the Y.P.C.C.'s first defeat in five second round games.

The Baptists gained their fourth win of the second round in the other Church league game, defeating the Presbyterians, 4 to 2.
